Happy Summer AP Government and Politics students! In order to prepare for our course in the fall, I have a couple of things for you to do this summer.

1. Get the textbook and a notebook specifically for the course
2. If you don't already have one, download a news app to your phone. You can follow any news agency that you prefer. Start paying attention to political news as it breaks this summer!
3. Throughout the course, we will be using a podcast called Constitutional. You can find it here:
https://www.washingtonpost.com/podcasts/constitutional/?itid=lk_inline_manual_10

You can also download it in any podcast listening app you prefer.

Listen to Episode 1: Framed. In your notebook, devote the first page to notes on this podcast. Explore specifically the idea that "the U.S. government was built on a series of negotiations". Read the related article on the website above.

Listen to Episode 2: Ancestry. In your notebook, devote the second page of notes to this podcast. Explore specifically in your notes the question "who is a person vs. who is a citizen". Read the related article on the website above.

4. Have a great summer! Stay active! Stay safe!
